Friends of the Belfast Hills

Belfast Hills Partnership

Caring together for the hills, their wildlife and people

Friends of the Belfast Hills

The "Friends of the Belfast Hills" group has been established by the Belfast Hills Partnership to enable people to care for the Hills and support the Trust in its work and aims.

This is your opportunity to help us care for the Hills.

Benefits you receive

- Knowing that you're helping to conserve and protect the Belfast Hills
- Receive the exclusive Friend of the Belfast Hills badge
- Receive the Belfast Hills newsletter and other literature before it is made available to the general public
- Receive details of events in the Belfast Hills including exclusive Friends only events
- Discount on Belfast Hills events

Funds raised through membership of Friends of the Belfast Hills group will be used to facilitate administration and events for the group. They will also help with the Partnership's practical project and ongoing education work. So join us today!

About the Belfast Hills

The Belfast Hills stretch from Colin Mountain in the south to Carrmoney Hill in the north and are home to important wildlife, archaeological sites, stunning landscapes and scattered communities.

The Belfast Hills Partnership Trust was established in 2004 as an independent charity and aims to:

- Increase people's appreciation of the value of the Belfast Hills
- Plan and carry out work programmes to protect and enhance biodiversity in the hills
- Help people enjoy the hills through a range of well-managed public sites
- Improve the quality of life for local people
- Promote sustainable local agriculture and industry
